WHY A FASHION SHOW?

Since its creation, the BSA Fashion Show has been a platform for showing talent, featuring students as models, scene leaders, and directors who all get to partner with Black-owned local businesses.

This show has continued to be a cornerstone of cultural celebration on campus. Through events like the fashion show, the BSA not only creates this space for every student to express themselves, but it also builds bridges between Loyola's students and the Baltimore County community.

2024-2025 DIRECTORS

Fashion show directors are in charge of all scenes, each getting their own to lead. Responsibilities also include weekly run throughs, dress rehearsal, lighting, music, and everything else to put on a good show!

Here is this year's leaders as pictured: Bianca Gerald, Jalen Taylor, David Cerkenick and Maddi Rolle!
